Second Glee Club Tour Of Season Is Completed Sunday

Concert Presented Before Rotary Club of Boston Wednesday Noon

GROUP BROADCASTS OVER STATION WEEI

Programs Given at Reading, Hingham, Brattleboro And Ashburnham

The Middlebury College glee club returned Sunday afternoon after completing a concert tour in Boston and vicinity. This is the second trip made by the organization, an earlier one having been conducted through northern Vermont.

The members of the club left Middlebury Tuesday morning, February 20, in a special bus bound for Boston but were forced to take a train from Rutland, due to the inclement weather. A concert scheduled to be presented that evening before the Boston alumni was cancelled.

Wednesday noon the glee club sang for the Boston Rotary club meeting in the ballroom of the Hotel Statler. A group of over 200 business men attended, many of them connected with Middlebury in official positions or as alumni. Dr. James L. Barton '81, a member of the college board of trustees, and Edgar J. Wiley, director of admissions and personnel, were among the speakers.

A recital was given Wednesday evening at Hingham high school, under the auspices of the Visiting Nurse association. Mr. Russell G. Reilly of Hingham was in charge of accommodations.

A broadcast over station WEEI was presented February 22, from 1:30 to 2:00 p. m., and in the evening a concert was given in Reading.

Concluding engagements in the tour consisted of a program given at the Cushing Academy at Ashburnham, Friday night, and a concert in Brattleboro the following evening.

Personality Talks Given For Women

Miss Elizabeth M. Osborne Emphasizes Importance of Making Good Impressions

Miss Elizabeth M. Osborne, college lecturer on "Personality", conducted a series of conferences and talks for the women Thursday and Friday in Pearsons social hall. These lectures were sponsored by the student government association.

Her program included two general talks, and seven group conferences in which she discussed the essentials of an attractive appearance. Private appointments were also made, giving those who desired an opportunity to consult Miss Osborne.

The lecture Thursday afternoon stressed the need of making a favorable impression on others even though one expects never to see them again. Good grooming and a pleasing voice are important, but correct posture is especially essential, according to Miss Osborne. Physical and mental poise as well as complete lack of self-consciousness are necessary.

Friday afternoon the speaker talked more in detail, discussing the care of the hair and skin and other points of good grooming. When selecting clothes she advised choosing those which are becoming and distinctive.

Program of Piano Duets To Be Given at Musicale

Sarah L. Elliott '35 and Caroline H. Elliott '37 will present a group of piano duets at the twilight musicale, Friday at 5 p. m. in Mead chapel.

Their program will include the following:

Overture, Felix Mendelssohn-Bartholdy
First Peergynt Suite ....Edvard Grieg
Marche Slave .....Peter Schaikowsky

A recital of piano selections was given last Friday by Frances B. Smith '37.

The following numbers were included in her program:

Prelude and Fugue Number 5 ....Bach
Fugue Number 26 .....Bach
Nocturne .....Paderewski
Fantasia .....Mozart
Adagio Cantabile movement from Sonata Pathetique .....Beethoven
Deux Arabesque .....Debussey

These recitals, held every Friday during the winter season, are sponsored by the A Tempo club. All who are interested are invited to attend.

Men Debaters Will Meet St. Michael's

Varsity to Uphold Negative Of Radio Control Question In Contest Tuesday Night

The men's debating team will encounter St. Michael's in a decision contest Tuesday at 8 p. m. in Mead chapel.

Middlebury will uphold the negative side of the question: resolved, that the United States should institute the British system of radio control and operation. Charles A. Deedman '36, Archibald C. Tilford '36, and John F. Darrow '37 will represent Middlebury in this encounter.

The Oxford system of debating will be used with the first affirmative speaker having a five minute constructive speech and a three minute rebuttal. The other two members of the team will have eight minute speeches.

Middlebury lost to Boston college by a two to one decision in a debate held here Thursday night. The question was: resolved, that the United States should strive for economic independence in its own hemisphere. Jack Steele '36 and Darrow, speaking for Middlebury, upheld the negative. Boston College was represented by William Donahue and John Roach.

The affirmative argued that the United States will never emerge from the present depession if she does not withdraw from foreign trade. They stated that with economic independence we would know definitely how much we would need to produce. The negative declared that such a policy would aggravate peace and cause economic disorder in the world.

The Rev. Arthur H. Gordon, Mr. P. J. Hincks and Dr. H. I. Slocum were the judges for this debate.

Hikes Planned by Mountain Club for March 10 and 11

The mountain club will conduct two hikes during the week-end of March 10 and 11. There will be an overnight trip and on Sunday a party will climb Camel's Hump.

Three hikes, including an overnight trip to Lake Pleiad were sponsored by the club during the past week-end.

The overnight hikers under the leadership of Wallace M. Cady '34 left Middlebury in trucks Saturday afternoon. They traveled on snowshoes from Bread Loaf inn to Pleiad lodge where they spent the night Prof. and Mrs. Vernon C. Harrington were the chaperons.

Lewis I. Shipman '37 and Louise E. Hutchinson '36 led a snowshoe hike Sunday to Lake Pleiad where the two groups met before returning to Middlebury.

Eighteen men participated in a four mile ski journey up Snake mountain under the leadership of W. Wyman Smith '35.

The last program of this type to be held in Middlebury was presented as a feature of junior week in 1930. Also under the sponsorship of the "M" club, this show was directed by Prof. Raymond L. Barney, and included in its cast a large number of undergraduates. Popular songs, skits, monologues, and a cabaret scene were included.

This show was reported to have been well received, but it was replaced in the junior week plans the following year by the interfraternity stunts, which have been continued since that time. Now the "M" club is reviving the program at a different season of the year.

The interfraternity stunts will be given Thursday evening, May 10. Rules for these have been made by a committee headed by Lester H. Benson '35. They are as follows:

1. The time shall be fifteen minutes and those lasting longer than eighteen minutes will be disqualified. The time shall begin when the curtain is drawn and shall be continuous. (Time used for changing scenes is included.)
2. There will be five minutes allotted each fraternity for clearing and setting the stage.
3. Stunts are to be judged according to originality, time, manner of presentation, and the relationship to college life.
4. Each fraternity must supply its own properties.
5. The number of participants shall not exceed twelve.

The annual junior prom will be held Friday night, May 11. Orchestras which are being considered include Julian Woodworth, Charlie Boulanger, Gene Hardos, Frank Winegar. The same system of Dutch dates as was used last year will be put into effect.

Activities of the week-end will close with the open house dances on Saturday night.

Abernethy Reading Given By Prof. Werner Neuse

Prof. Werner Neuse read his own translation of selections from the works of Franz Kafka Friday afternoon in the Abrnethy wing of the library.

Kafka attended the University of Prague from which he received an LL. D. degree. He worked for a time as a carpenter's apprentice and an office worker, writing nights until his health broke down.

Professor Neuse read "Anxiety of the House Father" which shows the sense of homelessness which the author, as a Jew, felt. In another selection, from "A Country Physician", a traveling salesman wakes up to find himself a beetle which horrorifies his family. He finally starves to death and is swept out with the dust. Although Kafka never visited this country, he wrote a sketch, "America", which the speaker read. The program also included "An Imperial Message", "Before the Law", and "The Knock at the Gate".

New Kaleidoscope Constitution Meets Official Ratification

Policy Provides for Tryout System for Sophomores And Freshmen

BOARD WILL BE SELF-PERPETUATING BODY

Election of Officers and Staff Will Be Held at Annual March Meeting

Final ratification of the new constitution for the Kaleidoscope was completed yesterday morning when the student government council of the women's college added their approval to the document. The document had previously been accepted by the student life committee and the men's student council.

Last year Kaleidoscope production was placed in the hands of a self-perpetuating board, similar to CAMPUS and Saxonian operation. Before the Christmas recess a group consisting of past and present Kaleidoscope editors and business managers, with the president of Pi Delta Epsilon, prepared the constitution which has been approved.

Control, organization and duties of the board are specifically outlined in the new rules, which were designed with the CAMPUS constitution as a model. Since the yearbook is a junior publication, the offices of editor, managing editor, one photography editor, business manager and advertising manager will be chosen from eligible junior men.

The associate editor, the other photography editor, and the associate business manager will be elected from qualified junior women. An art editor will be chosen from either college. Sophomore offices will include four assistant editors from each college, four assistant business managers from the men and two women assistant managers.

Provision is made for open competition for all positions on the board, and

WHAT PRICE COLLEGE?

We are moving today through a period of swift change, a time when all values and institutions are being subjected to merciless questioning and inspection. Things social and economic are being held up to a light of criticism which has the scrutiny of an x-ray, with nothing being held sacred.

Naturally enough, the American college is being examined more closely than ever before, in both its structure and its worth. While liberal educators are propounding various changes in collegiate method and purpose, students and their elders are carefully analyzing conditions from the financial viewpoint. No longer do the majority accept the college as an unquestioned good. With strict economy the order of the day, students and parents are attempting to measure the return received from the expense of a college education with utmost accuracy.

Using figures available through the National Bureau of Economic Research, we find that the cost of a year at college substantially exceeds the average yearly income of the American wage-earner. This seems almost incredible at first consideration, but it is none the less true. Can a college education be worth that much? Just what do we receive from four years of college that makes them worth more than the average income of the American breadwinner during the same period?

If the college education is worth its cost, why do we find so many holders of degrees either unemployed or working at pathetically low wages in positions that make no apparent use of college training? Is it not unqustionably bad to be prepared for a position of prestige, only to find the world can offer either a menial job or nothing at all? Might not the years of youthful vitality spent in study be spent in practical, productive ways? Questions like these are finding their way into the minds of those who must make many sacrifices at the shrine of the goddess of education.

We believe that the opportunity offered by college is worth the price it costs. It cannot be denied, of course, that a great number of students never gain a return equal to their expenditure, even though it is impossible to measure the benefits derived in terms of dollars and cents. But the fault usually lies with the individual. In some cases, where the student is thoroughly unfitted for academic work, college is pure waste, but college has a definite return to offer a majority of those who are able to pass its entrance requirements. It is for the student to grasp the opportunity, and the fault is his if he does not.

Ideally, the college offers a foundation for experience to come, a training and a polishing of natural abilities and faculties. It offers a training that should minimize the "trial and error" process of gaining knowledge in the struggle for social existence. College should clarify values for the student as well as offer specific training for a place in society. It offers a period of adjustment from the conditions of youth to those of maturity, carrying the individual through a transitory period that is far more painful outside of its influence. If the student avails himself of the opportunity to accept these advantages, he will be getting full return for his money.

Today, it would seem, the college is a better investment than ever. With our economic machinery clogged, the youth now in college could not be utilized by society to his fullest capacity if he were attempting to earn a living. This condition should not exist, but we cannot ignore its reality. There should always be room for capable men, and some may claim that there still is. A study of the percentage of last year's graduates who are earning a living would silence such claims. The youth is far better off gaining a more complete education in college than he would be hunting for a job and rapidly losing in morale.

The cost of a college education is a high one, but it is an investment that can be made to pay a profitable dividend. But it must be made to give its dividend. A college cannot work a miracle of education upon students who merely come to it passively expecting to absorb learning by association alone.

Poking About

—by Doris G. Anderson

The beautiful white Congregational church of Middlebury has had a long and varied history, and the record of its existence contains many peculiar details which were matters of grave importance to those serious-minded people of many years ago.

Just after the Revolution, when the town was repopulated, there was no organized church, the people calling upon missionaries and other men of God to fill the place of a regular pastor. In 1788, however, some action was taken in regard to an organized church and church building, and two years later Mr. John Barnet was called to become pastor of a congregation of twelve members. At that time the population of the village was approximately 350. The organized group was called the "Church of Christ". For five years Mr. Barnet was pastor, and then President Atwater took his place for two or three years. The membership steadily increased, various men's and women's societies formed, and a Sabbath school was established, before 1875. About that time there were 750 members in the church, the result of a series of revivals that were sweeping through western Vermont.

The articles, by-laws, and regulations of the church indicate the typical independence of that church, dominated only by loyalty to God and to conscience. They reveal also the broad tolerance of those pioneers for individual belief, mingled with a strange intolerance of the beliefs and actions of anyone within their own membership. Prayer services were held the first Monday of each month, and certain days were set aside on occasion, for prayer and fasting, "in view of the prevailing wickedness in the town", or at a time of drought. Attendance at all church meetings was rigidly required, and discipline was strict.

The following are some of the offenses which were subject to discipline: absenting oneself from public worship without just reason or cause; attending the Episcopal church; using intoxicating liquors; dancing; card playing; unnecessary visiting on Sunday; using profane language; neglect of family prayers; derogatory remarks concerning members of the church; and heretical observations. In 1809 one church member made public confession of this crime: "I was walking in the streets of Middlebury at an improper hour in the night of the tenth of August and I did without reflecting on the consequences or impropriety of the act, knock at the door of a certain house, thereby disturbing the inhabitants of the village." There are other similar confessions in the records, some merely on account of having cut wheat to save it, on the Sabbath, and some because of having gone out to kill wolves on Sunday. Although such instances seem too strict to us, we can only admire their friendly interest in one another, the lack of bitterness or envy among them, and their alertness to national and world affairs, as evidenced by records of resolutions made to the national congress as well as to the state legislature.

Although nothing can be found in the church records concerning the separation of men and women in the vestry, there must have been some question on the subject in their minds, for in 1877 a vote was passed stating that: "If there ever has been a rule requiring males to sit on one side of the vestry and females on the other, it is hereby rescinded." About that time, too, afternoon services were omitted "to give more time for the Sabbath school."

During its long history, people of this church have given of their want, not of their wealth, to help flood victims in Kansas, earthquake and fire victims in California, and unfortunate people in other places, as well as in Middlebury itself, and its influence has been felt in some degree in almost every part of the globe.

Shreds and Patches

—by L. Judson Morhouse

And now, my children, when you grow old and grey, and your grandchildren come and perch upon your bony knee, you can tell not only about the blizzard of '34, but about how in the old days Middlebury professors came to school on horses. (It really was only one horse, but they won't believe you anyway.)

Our idea of a racket is this conference on "How to be beautiful." We have a hunch that any one could tear anyone else apart with "Your hair is lousy, your skin, your teeth, your posture, everything about you - - - - ". For twenty-five dollars - - - even inflated ones - - - per conference we could make Jimmy Walker out to be a social tramp. And the height of something is the desire expressed by some of the faculty of the women's college to be permitted to make appointments for a conference!

Our president can get away with being snowbound — that is, as far as the college is concerned. But, somehow or other, we'd hate to try the same line in the Dean's office. Who will carry the serum to West Hartford?

Are you a desk-drummer, or just a February-boy? Come to think of it though, February isn't so bad, but can you imagine the horror of being a June-boy? Or at least the horror of being called one?

Conversation: "Is 'Duck Soup' worth going downtown for?" "I don't know. Where do you get it?" Step right up, little girl, you win the transparent neck tie.

We don't particularly mind walking two or three feet above the ground on these new elevated sidewalks which seem to be so popular in Middlebury. What gets us, is getting caught in one of the ruts so prevalent and having to walk downtown on our way to chapel.

There's nothing like being independent. We must commend the spirit of the two girls who became a wee bit bored with their escorts at a fraternity house dance last Saturday night. They ups and goes home. Rather silly, girls, for it's a game that's easily learned, and besides, you might have won something.

Let us be the first to stamp out that unbecoming rumor concerning the letter mailed in 1814 and read in chapel. It really wasn't discovered when they cleaned out the old post-office.

Shredded Shreds . . . . the ski meet called off because of too much snow, ... the professor who puzzled at great length on how to spell the word "island" . . . . the lass who had to take a night out for getting in three minutes past eight but who claimed it was worth it.

It seems, according to latest reports, that one of our economics professors is really quite a revelation, outside the lecture hall. Quite the vaudeville performer, he knows jokes and tells them, when not otherwise engaged in predicting the downfall of the monetary system.

Another prize this week goes to the little lass who just couldn't see why the basketball teams should wear themselves out trying to put the ball into just two baskets, with all the others around the walls.

Even without the complications of the extra baskets, last night's game was the perfect menagery thrill, what with the mortal conflict of the potent Panther and the good old Saba-toothed Catamount.

Either an Eskimo has come south to open a rival college on lower campus, or some New Yorker is homesick for the Palisades — anyway, we wonder what's going to happen when that snow embankment grows to the point where Middlebury will be the "college under the hill".

Dr. Percy Ladd Is Vespers Speaker

Stresses Human Possibility Of Control Over Spiritual And Social Improvement

The Rev. Percy Ladd, pastor of the College street church of Burlington, based his sermon at vespers on the words, "Have dominion" from Genesis i:28.

Dr. Ladd, by pointing out the high lights of biography along the trail of life, showed the potential power and complishments of man. He emphasized his points by listing men born in February who were leaders in the fields of science, pedagogics, philanthropy, and religion.

"First of all," said the speaker, "we accept the fact of evolution. It governs all development round about us. Life, architecture, physiography owe their present appearances to the laws of change. Evolution is the underlying axiom of the universe.

"Because of the great contributions of scientific investigation, invention and exploration, we have begun to realize that evolution is to a great extent under human control. By man-made devices mountains made through thousands of years are razed in a few hours. We believe that there is nothing man could not do if he would.

"Education may be defined as the process of fitting men to be at home with themselves in the world," continued Dr. Ladd. "That is how we learn better to manipulate the power that science has laid at our feet. Education teaches us the means by which we can control evolution.

"Justice and humanity are the real ends of progress. Throughout the history of man social righteousness has been the underlying purpose of progress. Control of evolution, fostered by education toward perfect human relationships — that is the goal of mankind.

"Religion is the power of all progress," the speaker concluded. "No one can rise any higher than his inner self. Therefore, to lift a man to greater heights, one must touch his soul. It is the power of the cross of Christ that will transform the life of the individual and of mankind. If this world goes forward, it must be driven by divine power and religious energy."

A BETTER POSITION

It's about as good as a tobacco pouch

"THIS Granger package is what I call good common sense. It's just about as good as a tobacco pouch.

"Here's what I mean—it keeps the tobacco right, and you can fold it up smaller after every pipe. That makes it handy to carry.

"And I want to put in a word for the tobacco while I'm at it. Granger keeps a pipe clean as a whistle, and man, it is cool.

"I want to say Granger is just about the best tobacco I ever smoked."

ONLY THE CENTER LEAVES FOR Luckies

1 Luckies do not use the top leaves . . . because top leaves are under-developed . . . they are not ripe . . . They would give a harsh smoke.

2 Luckies use only the center leaves of the finest tobacco plants . . . because the center leaves are the mildest, tenderest, smoothest.

3 Luckies do not use the bottom leaves, because bottom leaves are inferior in quality. They grow close to the ground, and are tough, coarse and always sandy.

This picture tells better than words the merit of your Lucky Strike. Luckies use only the center leaves. Not the top leaves, because those are under-developed—not ripe. Not the bottom leaves, because those are inferior in quality—they grow close to the ground and are tough, coarse and always sandy. The center leaves are the mildest leaves, the finest in quality. These center leaves are cut into long, even strands and are fully packed into each and every Lucky—giving you a cigarette that is always round, firm, completely filled—no loose ends. Is it any wonder that Luckies are so truly mild and smooth? And in addition, you know, "It's toasted"—for throat protection, for finer taste.

Middlebury Quintet Wins Two Games

St. Michael's and U. V. M. Are Defeated by Panther Five in Home Encounters

Led by an inspiring performance by Captain Sweet, the Panther basketball team swept into a clean-cut lead in the G. M. C. court race by overwhelming U. V. M. at the McCullough gymnasium last night. The score was 43-18.

Maintaining a fast tempo throughout the encounter, and playing determined basketball, the Panthers gave their best performance of the season. The Blue and White guarded closely and efficiently, rarely giving their up-state rivals a clean opening to shoot, and their offensive floor work was marked by splendid passwork.

In direct contrast, the Green and Gold was slow in breaking open its offense, and was sluggish in checking the Middlebury cut-ins and passes.

Captain Sweet, in addition to being the key-man of the defense from his guard position, led the night's scoring with 15 points. The Panther forwards, Hoehn and Leete, followed with 12 and 10 points respectively. Clonan at center did not break into the scoring column, but he consistently got the jump on Morgan, and was exceptionally efficient.

Careful, somewhat slow play marked the opening minutes of the game. The guarding was unusually close, and the scoring did not begin for several minutes. Captain Sweet broke the ice with a long shot, however, and the Panthers slowly built up a ten point lead before their opponents could counter. Play continued tight throughout the first half, with the Lakesiders evening the count at 10-all at one juncture, only to see the Panthers leap ahead again. A scoring splurge by the Catamounts in the last few minutes before half-time brought the count to 14-all when the gun sounded.

Hoehn broke the deadlock, taking a bullet like pass from Leete to loop a one hander through the net and almost immediately scoring again via the same play. From this point the Catamounts steadily weakened, never threatening during the remainder of the struggle and recording only four additional counts on free throws. The Panthers repeatedly cut through the Green and Gold defense to cage shots from all angles of the court, setting a fast pace which the visitors were unable to maintain. The tilt ended with the score at 43-18 as Hoehn converted on a free throw.

Middlebury 53 — St. Michael's 30

The Blue and White courtmen scored their third victory in the Green Mountain conference series on the home court Friday night when they piled up a 53-30 score against St. Michael's.

Leete, Panther forward, was high scorer of the evening with Captain Sweet and Branon of St. Michael's nearly equalling his performance. Jukoski and Captain Ruggerio at the forward positions accounted for 11 of the Purple score.

Less than two minutes after the opening gun Jukoski received a short pass and converted for the first score of the evening. St. Mike's lead was short-lived, a heave by Leete evening the score. Working short passes and lightening dribbles Branon twice found a scoring position. Hoehn cut free for a field goal and Leete made good on a foul try.

Meade broke into the open to score a step-shot and Ruggerio caged a foul. Tallies in quick succession by Sweet, Clonan and Leete and a second goal by Hoehn made the score 17-9 Middlebury. A scoring barrage by Branon increased the purple count by eight points while Sweet netted a long heave and sank a short pass from Leete. Ruggerio bagged another foul and the half ended 24-18 with Middlebury holding the lead.

Leete started the Beckmen off to a fast offensive in the second half with a successful long heave. Sweet immediately seconded with a dribble from the sideline which he converted. Hoehn now scored a one-hand shot from under the basket. A pass from Clonan to Leete landed safely within the rim and Larry followed it up with a dribble to score again. The Purple defense was completely shattered.

Captain Sweet broke free to tally twice more and Martin and Davis at guard sank long shots. St. Mike's offence was making little headway although Ruggerio and Jukoski each scored twice. Branon netted a goal and made good on two foul shots. With a comfortable lead which was never threatened the Panther subs ably completed the encounter.

Necessity of Cadet Game to Be Determined by Contest Tonight

The Norwich-St. Michael's basketball game to be played at Winooski tonight will determine whether or not Middlebury will play its game with Norwich Friday night at the McCullough gymnasium. If Coach Carr's Mikemen can defeat the Horsemen, a playoff will not be necessary. The Panthers now lead the league with four wins and one defeat. A Norwich victory would place the Cadets in a tie with Middlebury. The return of Peavy into action gives the St. Michael's aggregation a splendid chance to end the season's conference play.

"Tristam and Isolde" is Given at Wagner Verein

Mr. Lansing V. Hammond presented the opera, "Tristram and Isolde" at the meeting of the Wagner Verein last Wednesday evening.

The next meeting of the Verein will be held during the second week of March. At this time Mr. Hammond will present the opera, "Parsifal." He has selected this opera since it will be given at the Metropolitan opera house on Good Friday. As this is during the Easter recess students living near New York will have an opportunity to attend. It is presented at this time due to its religious qualities.

This year the group has been studying the operas which are being sung at the Metropolitan. These meetings are open to all members of the faculty and student body.

Panthers Triumph At Boston Relays

Middlebury Defeats Rhode Island and Bates to Place Second in Final Ranking

Middlebury's one mile relay team journeyed to the Boston Garden last Wednesday night to win its second consecutive race at the University club games.

The Blue and White quartet of Boehm, Prochazka, Hunter, and Hoxie repeated its victory of the Boston A. A. meet over Bates and Rhode Island. The time, 3 minutes 33 2-5 seconds, was exactly one second faster than the Boston A. A. performance.

Besides defeating their two rivals, the Panther quartermilers earned second place in the class B relay competition, which was decided by the comparative times of the teams competing in separate races. Bowdoin gained first honors with 3:32 1-5, with Middlebury second, Bates third, Rhode Island fourth, Amherst fifth, and seven other schools, including Mass. State, Conn. State, Colby, Boston university, Williams, Tufts and New Hampshire, following.

In winning over Bates and Rhode Island, the Panthers provided the crowd with the most exciting relay finish of the entire meet. The lead on the first leg was taken by Rhode Island, with Boehm handing the baton to Prochazka about two yards behind in second place. On the last lap of his quarter, Prochazka drew ahead into first place, and gave Hunter a three yard lead, which the latter held almost intact. Hoxie then took the stick and with a determined sprint held off a pressing challenge by both the Rhode Island and Bates anchor men. At the tape Hoxie was a foot to the good of Bates, with Rhode Island inches behind the Maine team.

Annual Decathlon Starts Tomorrow

Semi-finals of 60 Yard Dash To Be Opening Event of Individual Track Contest

The annual all-campus decathlon will get under way tomorrow afternoon on the board track. Trial heats and semi-finals of the 60 yard dash will be run at that time.

Entries to the competition are open to any who wish to compete in either one or several of the events. Silver loving cups will be awarded to the three highest point-winners, and medals will be given to the winners of the individual events.

Two separate runnings of the 60 yard dash and the 60 yard low hurdles and one competition each in the shot put, discus throw, high jump, pole vault, 880 yard run and one mile run will make up the ten events to be contested.

Coach Brown is hoping for a large number of entries, as the competition has as one of its aims the stimulation of interest in track and field. The individual medals are offered as inducement to those who are specialists and would not have a chance to annex a cup.

Last season's decathlon was won by Donald B. MacLean '33, with Donald B. MacKenzie '33 second and Otto W. Prochazka '35 third.

Men's Badminton Tourney Approaching Semi-Finals

With a few more second round matches to be played, the intramural badminton tournament is entering the quarter-finals and may possibly reach the semi-finals this week.

Flagg '34, Benson '35 and Riccio '35 have reached the quarter-finals by beating Janas '35, Hall '36 and Pickens '35 respectively. Flagg placed second last year, being defeated by Allen in the final. Several other matches will be held to decide five more quarter-finalists.

The early matches are being decided by two sets out of three, while in the semi-finals three out of five sets will be needed. Sixty-four men entered the tournament this year. The games are being held evenings in four courts set up in the gymnasium.

John Holmes Wins Ski-Jumping Contest

Meacham Takes Second and Springstead Third Place In Mountain Club Tourney

John C. Holmes '36 was awarded first place in the ski jumping contest yesterday afternoon in which fifteen students competed for the jumping championship of the college. The Mountain club sponsored this competition and presented the winner a pair of Austrian jumping skiis.

The recent snow-fall and zero weather made conditions ideal for the contest. Each competitor was allowed two jumps, the winner being determined by adding the distances of his two jumps to the total number of points allotted for form, as decided by Prof. Ellsworth B. Cornwall who acted as judge.

Holmes, the winner, jumped a total of 126 feet, 3 in. and was given 29 out of a possible 40 points for form, making a total score of 156.3 points. Meacham '36 took second place with a total of 155 points, 128 feet for distance and 27 for form. Springstead '36 was awarded third honors scoring a total of 149.6 points, 127 feet, 6 in. for distance and 22 points for form.
